Major renovation project on Edernish Island

Rosemary Clay Classic

PICTURE OF PARADISE

Located on Edernish Island, a tiny private atoll on Ireland's North West coast, sits a home completely at ease in the tranquillity of its striking surroundings. That is, in part, thanks to the reroofing recently completed using Redland's Rosemary Clay Classic tiles, Dry Hip System and DryVent Ridge.

Seeking advice on guidelines and building regulations, the present owner turned to Redland's comprehensive website for technical information. FixMaster Online, the Redland free-to-use online fixing specification service was able to provide the information needed to meet with relevant British Standards, including BS 5534: 2014.

Although weather on Edernish Island is mostly pleasant it also takes the brunt of severe European storms. Strong gales and chilly temperatures will continue to batter the roof tiles which are more than equipped to tackle the challenge. Rigorous testing in the company's wind tunnel has shown that the Rosemary Clay Classic tiles hold up to strong wind and driving rain to meet all requirements of BS 5534.

This unique project highlights the versatility of Redland's products and how the excellent online service package and expert technical knowledge combine to create a comprehensive package. Redland's Technical Sales Manager for Ireland, David Callaghan, added: "This project needed a tile that would match the original style of the roof and improve the look as a whole. Redland's FixMaster has given the homeowner the confidence of the perfect solution."
